Social responsibility

2B's business is based on long-term, strong relationships with customers and suppliers. Our employees' motivation and aspiration to deliver good results and work in concert with our business partners and the world at large are critical for our success. Our business must be based on good ethics and great respect for all individuals within the company as well as with external contacts.

2B's business is conducted according to the following principles:

We shall always act in such a manner that the company's interests on the one side and the employees' interests on the other do not come into conflict. If such conflicts of interest or uncertainty regarding such an issue should arise, the matter shall immediately be referred to the immediate superior or the chairman of the respective company.

We respect and honour obligations to employees as laid down by national laws and agreements on social protection.

Employee rights to organise in labour unions of their choice and to engage in collective bargaining shall be respected. We repudiate child labour and forced labour.

We offer our employees equal opportunities regardless of age, race, skin colour, gender, nationality, faith, sexual orientation or ethnic origin.

We do not tolerate discrimination or harassment.

We offer a safe and healthy work environment and conduct systematic improvement. We deplore human trafficking and modern slavery in all its forms. We support the MSA and its underlying aims.
